WE BECOME WHAT WE WORSHIP - Scripture Union

This psalm is a sobering reminder that we become like what we worship. Therefore, we should be careful not only to avoid false idols, but also to not worship some warped caricature of God that we have invented in our own minds, rather than the true and living God, who has revealed himself in the person of Jesus Christ.

We become what we worship. That is to say, we emulate—or become like—the people (and things) we most admire. To understand this concept, we have to understand the origins of the word worship. The word worship comes from the Old English worðscip or wurðscip—or worth ship—meaning “condition of being worthy, dignity, glory, distinction, honor, renown.”

We become what we worship – NT Wright When human beings give their heartfelt allegiance to and worship that which is not God, they progressively cease to reflect the image of God. One of the primary laws of human life is that you become like what you worship; what’s more, you reflect what you worship not only to the object itself but also outward to the world around.”

Well, it's simple—whatever you're consumed with, you're going to reflect in your life. In other words, we become what we worship. If you look up synonyms for worship in your thesaurus, you come across words like revere, adoration and idolize. I want to spend a little time focusing on that last word idolize.

“We become what we worship” is the basic insight of G K Beale’s book of the same name. Unfortunately it’s an “academic” book and, like most academic books, suffers from being twice as long and complicated as it ought to be (where have all the brave editors gone?).

We Become Like What We Worship - Capturing Christianity

His main thesis is stated in the title of the book: we become like what we worship. We are by nature worshipping creatures, and we will eventually become like what we worship. If that is God, we will be molded into God's image (which is what we were created to do). But if we worship idols, we will become like idols. Beale demonstrates that this idea about idolatry and worship permeates the Scripture.

We Become What We Behold by Nicky Case!

In worship, we are transformed and in being transformed we either become more human or less so. I cannot cite a reference to confirm this, but I think it gets at something important. There is a sense where by worshipping God and being conformed into the image of His Son by the work of His Spirit that we become more real.

Becoming Like Who We Worship - Word on Fire

Why is it that we become what we worship? The Bible asserts that humanity is made in the image of God (Gen. 1:26). Thus, we are created to be beings who reflect. We were originally created to reflect God.

We Become Like What We Worship: Psalm 115 - Seedbed

If we worship the God of family, of love, of beauty, and of truth, then we become people of family, of love, of beauty, and of truth. Let us embrace the mission of showing the world the God of family, of love, of beauty, of truth—the God of Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Photo Credit: Santiago Mejía LC, Cathopic.com

Have You Become What You Worship? - Credo Magazine

Our reading connects what we worship to what we become: “they followed emptiness and became empty” (15b, NABRE). While the NIV reads “worthless” and this is a valid translation, the Hebrew word also carries the sense of “being without substance.”

What the Bible says about We Become What We Worship

The heart of the biblical understanding of idolatry, argues Gregory Beale, is that we take on the characteristics of what we worship. Employing Isaiah 6 as his interpretive lens, Beale demonstrates that this understanding of idolatry permeates the whole canon, from Genesis to Revelation.

We Become What We Worship | Desiring God

A brief explanation is in order (for more on all of this, see Gregory Beale's We Become What We Worship). So it's not enough that we worship the right God, the God of the Bible, we must also worship the right God in the right way, the biblical way. My hope is that he inspires you in ways he does me. and so will all who trust in them. One day we will stand in the assembly of saints and angels to worship our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.
